Friday, 26 October 2007 (Hitchcock Hall 35)

2:00-2:15     Welcome and Opening Remarks

Session I: Special Session on Acquisition, Part I: First Language Acquisition
Time	Presenter(s)	Title
2:15-2:45	Daniel A. Dinnsen, Indiana University Ashley W. Farris-Trimble, Indiana University	An opacified conspiracy in phonological acquisition
2:45-3:15	Fangfang Li, The Ohio State University	Developmental trends vs. phonological acquisition: evidence from fricative acquisition of children speaking English, Japanese, and Mandarin Chinese
3:15-3:45	Sharon Peperkamp, LSCP (Paris) Katherine White, University of Rochester James Morgan, Brown University	Prelexical acquisition of allophony
3:45-4:15	Sharon Gerlach, University of Minnesota	The problem of /s/-initial onset clusters: Evidence from acquisition for the role of featural sequence constraints

4:15-4:30     Coffee Break

Session II: Special Session on Acquisition, Part II: Second Language Acquisition
Time	Presenter(s)	Title
4:30-5:00	Chunsheng Yang, The Ohio State University	Production and perception of Japanese stops by native speakers of Mandarin: A pilot study
5:00-5:30	Yen-Chen Hao, Indiana University	Perception and production of Mandarin Chinese tones by English-speaking and Cantonese-speaking L2 learners
5:30-6:00	Nattalia Paterson, Northwestern University Matt Goldrick, Northwestern University	Doctor Jekyll and Senhor Hyde: The Two Faces of the Cognate Effect

Saturday, 27 October 2007 (Hitchcock Hall 35)

Session III: Speech Perception
Time	Presenter(s)	Title
9:00-9:30	Yoonsook Mo, UI-Urbana-Champaign Jennifer Cole, UI-Urbana-Champaign	Prosody perception by naive listeners: Evidence from a large multi-transcriber reliability study
9:30-10:00	Kristen Marie Carlson, Purdue University	An acoustic and perceptual analysis of compensatory processes in vowels preceding deleted post-nuclear /s/ in Andalusian Spanish
10:00-10:30	Miyeon Ahn, University of Michigan	Perceptual bias based on morphology of Korean palatalization

10:30-10:45 Coffee Break

Session IV: Speech Production
Time	Presenter(s)	Title
10:45-11:15	Jennifer Cole, UI-Urbana-Champaign Gary Linebaugh, UI-Urbana-Champaign Cheyenne Munson, University of Iowa Bob McMurray, University of Iowa	Vowel-to-vowel coarticulation across words in English: Acoustic evidence
11:15-11:45	Anna Bosch, University of Kentucky	Revisiting preaspiration: Evidence from the survey of the Gaelic dialects of Scotland
11:45-12:15	Tsan Huang, SUNY-Buffalo Karin Michelson, SUNY-Buffalo	Phonetic voicing in Oneida plosives

12:15-2:15 Lunch on your own
Set up posters (Hitchcock Hall 30)

Poster Session I: 2:15-3:15
Poster	Presenter(s)	Title
1	Anthony Brasher, University of Michigan	Effects of speaking modality on nasal coarticulation in English
3	Isabelle Darcy, Indiana University	Representation of phonological alternations in a first and second language
5	April Lynn Grotberg, University of Chicago	Stress and tone in Macuiltiangus Zapotec
7	Anupam Das, Indiana University	The distribution of aspirated stops and /h/ in Bangla: An optimality theoretic approach

Poster	Presenter(s)	Title
9	Dahee Kim, The Ohio State University	The phonetics and phonology of English sentence-final stop release
11	Eunjong Kong, The Ohio State University Mary E. Beckman, The Ohio State University Jan Edwards, University of Wisconsin	Fine-grained phonetics and acquisition of Greek voiced stops
13	Sara Mack, University of Minnesota Benjamin Munson, University of Minnesota	Implicit processing, memory for voices, and the 'gay lisp' stereotype
15	Traci Nagle, Indiana University	Double opacity in standard colloquial Bengali verbs
17	Louis Paul Rabaut, Indiana University Jonathan C. Anderson, Indiana University	The movements of pharyngeal fricatives in Sudanese Arabic
19	Joseph C. Toscano, University of Iowa Marcus E. Galle, University of Iowa Bob McMurray, University of Iowa	Learning positional variation and place of articulation in stop consonants from the distributional statistics of acoustic cues
21	Kristen Van Engen, Northwestern University Rachel E. Baker, Northwestern University Arim Choi, Northwestern University Midam Kim, Northwestern University Ann Bradlow, Northwestern University	Development of the Wildcat corpus of native- and foreign-accented English

Poster Session II: 3:15-4:15

2	Kaori Akashi, Indiana University	Morphophonological alternation of mora augmentation in Japanese
4	Melissa Baese, Northwestern University Ann Bradlow, Northwestern University Beverly Wright, Northwestern University	Enhancing learning on foreign-accent adaptation with a combination of active training and passive stimulus exposure
6	Matthew Berends, Northwestern University Matthew Goldrick, Northwestern University	Lexical properties facilitate L2 phonetic processing in bilingual speakers
8	Kenneth de Jong, Indiana University Hanyong Park, Indiana University	Interactions between Koreans' perception of epenthetic syllables and coda neutralization

10	Robert Felty, Indiana University Adam Buchwald, New York University David B. Pisoni, Indiana University Melissa Troyer, Indiana University	Constucting neighborhood density through recognition errors
Number	Presenter(s)	Title
12	DJ Hovermale, The Ohio State University	Vowel Deletion and the Interaction of Sibilants in Chimwiini
14	Midam Kim, Northwestern University Ann Bradlow, Northwestern University William Horton, Northwestern University	Phonetic convergence between native and non-native speakers
16	B. Devan Steiner, Indiana University	The effect of morphological derivation on stress in Muruwari: A reworking of stress constraints in Optimality Theory
18	Xinting Zhang, University of Michigan	Lexical Decision in Standard Chinese
20	Zoe Ziliak, University of Florida	Optimal domains and Kikuyu tonology: Spreading, shifting, and bidirectional domains

Note: Coffee and refreshments will be available throughout the afternoon poster sessions. There will be a 5-minute break between the second poster session and the last session of the day.

Session V: Special Issues in Phonological Theory
Time	Presenter(s)	Title
4:20-4:50	Milica Radisic, University of Toronto	The manner of velar /g/ in Serbian: A contrastive account
4:50-5:20	Nicholas C. Henriksen, Indiana University	Word-initial hiatus and vowel fortition in Castilian Spanish
5:20-5:50	Jill Beckman, University of Iowa Catherine Ringen, University of Iowa	Coda devoicing: does it exist?

7:00-whenever PARTY

Sunday, 28 October 2007 (Hitchcock Hall 35)

Session VI: Loanword Phonology
Time	Presenter(s)	Title
9:00-9:30	Ashley W. Farris-Trimble, Indiana University	Cumulative faithfulness and Harmonic Grammar
9:30-10:00	Nobuko Davis, University of Minnesota	Absolutely no codas in Japanese syllables
10:00-10:30	Stuart Davis, Indiana University Jung-Yueh Tu, Simon Fraser University	On word prosody in loanword phonology

10:30-10:45 Coffee Break

Session VII: Prosodic and Lexical Considerations in Phonology
Time	Presenter(s)	Title
10:45-11:15	Jessica Sertling-Miller, University of Wisconsin – Eau Claire	Prosodic style shifting as audience design: real-time monitoring of pitch range and contour types in Swiss French
11:15-11:45	Sam Duanmu, University of Michigan	Word accent in Japanese: Resolving a theoretical conflict
11:45-12:15	Caroline Engstler, Northwestern University Matthew Goldrick, Northwestern University	Lexical properties modulate phonological attrition: Evidence from German

12:15-1:15 Pizza Lunch and Business Meeting
